Clinical Examination Findings:

Tooth #42 (FDI notation): Healthy, no signs of decay or inflammation.

Observed Symptoms: Underbite present.

Diagnosis:

- ICD-10: K03.090 - Malocclusion, unspecified

- SNOMED CT: 475628007 - Malocclusion

Treatment Plan:

1. Orthodontic treatment for correction of underbite (high priority)

- Braces or Invisalign aligners may be recommended

2. Regular dental check-ups and professional teeth cleanings every 6 months to maintain oral health

Urgency Level: High, due to the presence of an underbite which could potentially lead to further complications if left untreated.

Follow-up Recommendations:

- Referral to an orthodontist for consultation and treatment planning

- Schedule follow-up dental examination in 6 months to assess progress and address any new concerns or symptoms

Overall Dental Status:

- Problem teeth: 15 (excluding tooth #42)
- Previously treated: 44, 45
- Missing teeth: 24

Patient-Friendly Advice & Explanation

Dear Moamen Ahmed,

What We Found:

- Your tooth #42 is healthy and has no signs of decay or inflammation. However, we noticed that you have an underbite.

What This Means:

- An underbite means your lower teeth sit in front of your upper teeth when your jaw is closed. It's a common dental issue that can cause discomfort over time if not treated.

What We Recommend:

1. To correct your underbite, we suggest orthodontic treatment such as braces or Invisalign aligners. This is a high priority for us.
2. Regular dental check-ups and cleanings every 6 months to keep your oral health in top shape.

What You Should Do At Home:

- We'll refer you to an orthodontist who will discuss the best treatment plan for you.
- Remember to schedule a follow-up dental examination with us in 6 months so we can check on your progress and address any new concerns or symptoms.

Your Overall Dental Status:

- We found issues with 15 of your teeth (excluding tooth #42), but 44 and 45 have been treated already. We also noticed that you're missing 2 teeth.

Remember, it's important to address the underbite as soon as possible to prevent further complications. We're here to help every step of the way!
